

For Immediate Release –

The Speaker of the House Talks Business with United Performance Metals

Hamilton, Ohio -Friday, May 11, 2012 -U. S. House Speaker John Boehner, R-West Chester Twp. spent time this morning with staff from United Performance Metals as well as 30 other local business leaders to discuss current issues and obstacles they are facing in the area of job creation.

Speaker Boehner opened up the floor to questions from small business owners with regard to the obstacles they face. Topics covered included pension reform, EPA overreach, health care reform, export strategies, tax codes and education.

Mr. Speaker thanked all of the invited guests for all the work they do. “Employers take the risk to invest in a business, take a risk to hire people and, it all makes an impact in your community.”

United Performance Metals was selected to host the “Listening Session” earlier this week. United Performance Metals is a leading supplier of specialty stainless steel and high temperature alloys. In business since 1982, United Performance Metals has experience serving the needs of customers in diverse markets including aerospace, aircraft, automotive, medical, food service, house-wares, petro-chemical and many others. For more information on United Performance Metals visit us at www.upmet.com, call us at 1.888.282.3292 or email sales@upmet.com.

Speaker of The House John Boehner taking Q & A at United Performance Metals

United Performance Metals Executive Team meets John Bohner. From the left John Niehaus, Vice President of Sales; Scott Fasse, Vice President of Marketing and Business Development; Tom Kennard, President; Roger Haire, Plant Manager; Annette Tiesman, Executive Vice President; Jeff Liesch, Chief Financial Officer